John Barlow (ca. 1600 - 1674) of Fairfield, Connecticut

by Edson L. Barlow

John Barlow, the immigrant ancestor of one Barlow line in America, came to New England with his family early in the 17th century and settled at what is now the town of Fairfield in Fairfield County, Connecticut. All that is known about him from the available records is that he sold some land, his children married and his will was run through probate. Much about him remains a mystery, although there are clues that can be used to partially reconstruct his life.

Ancestry and Nativity

John Barlow was probably born around 1600. This guess is based pretty much on the assumption that he was about twenty years old when his first child was born in 1620-25. A birth year of 1600 would make him about 74 years old when he died.

John Barlow's birthplace is another matter. John was apparently a descendant of Roger Barlow (ca. 1500 - 1553), according to the English College of Heralds. Roger Barlow was the first of the family to settle in Pembrokeshire, Wales, and he purchased an estate, Slebetch Manor, there from the crown in 1546. Joel Barlow, a descendant of John Barlow, applied for and was given the privilege of the Barlow of Slebetch arms by the English College of Heralds when he was in England in the late 18th century. (The Barlow of Slebetch arms are shown above on the right in the masthead of this newsletter; the Barlow of Lancaster arms are on the left.) Based seemingly upon this, a number of references have stated that John Barlow was born in Pembrokeshire, Wales. While there seems to be little doubt that John was a descendant of the Barlows of Slebetch (it would be nice to see the College of Heralds' research to confirm their findings), it is much more likely that he was "of England" when he sailed for New England in the 1630's. Whether he was born in Wales or England remains a mystery.

John Barlow's parents are not known from the records. In 1987 I received from Mr. Hal Young copies of correspondence that he had received that indicate that John Barlow's parents were Alexander Barlow and Mary Brereton of Manchester, Lancashire, England. A Mormon Archive Record group sheet prepared by Estelle Tidwell Rowley in, I think, the 1930s (the Temple Ordinance Data's earliest date is 1931) shows a Sir Alexander Barlow and Mary Brereton having 14 children from 1581 to about 1602 at Manchester. Their twelfth child was a John Barlow born about 1598 and he was given as marrying Ann Ward. Her source references were given as: "Lanc. Vol 2 p 396 Lanc Pub B. V. 75 pp 45, 46; Lanc. Pub B. V. 84 p 28 (funeral certificate of A. Barlow); Lanc Pub B. V. 31 (O.S.) pp 209-212; B13F1 (Family Papers by Sir Montague Barlow); Lanc. 38 V 2 pp 237, 248 (Birth and Chr records)." Whether this is our John Barlow is open to question.

Colonial naming customs would seem to indicate that these were not John Barlow's parents. The fact that John's first-born son was named John is normal, and he had no other son to name Alexander. But if his mother was Mary Brereton, I would expect a daughter to be named Mary. Instead, he had Elizabeth, Martha, Deborah, Isabella and Ruth, and I would expect his mother and his wife's mother to have one of these names.

Another problem with Alexander Barlow is his ancestry which does not include Roger Barlow of Slebetch and would belie Joel Barlow's claim to the Barlow of Slebetch arms. Alexander's ancestry is traced back to Albini de Sale by Sir Montague Barlow in his Barlow Family Records as follows: Sir Alexander Barlow^A (1558-1620) married Mary Brereton, Alexander Barlow^B (c1515-1584) married Elizabeth Leigh, Ellis Barlow^C married Ann Reddish, Roger Barlow^D (-c1525) married Catherine Prestwick, Alexander Barlow^E married Elizabeth Ashton in 1434, Nicholas Barlow^F married Anne ----, John Barlow^G married Joan de Holland, John de Barlow^H married Margery ---, Roger de Barlow^I, Robert de Barlow^J Sir Thomas de Barlow^K (c1250-1300) married Margery Ainsworth(?), Sir Robert/Roger de Barlow^L (c1230-), Thomas de Barlow^M (c1200-), Alexander^N - son of Albini de Sale (c1200-), Albini de Sale^O (c1150-).

On the other hand, Alexander and Mary were prominent people. Sir Alexander was a Knight and his wife Mary Brereton was apparently a descendent of King Edward I. Perhaps even their twelfth child was important enough to warrant a prominent home-lot at Fairfield. Or perhaps Roger Ludlow, who was the second son of Thomas Ludlow of Denton, Wiltshire, was closely related to one of the Barlows.

Immigration and Settlement

In her A Memorial of the Kindred and Ancestry of Harriet L. Sturges Goulden of Fairfield, Connecticut, Harriet E. Goulden Whitmore wrote in 1899 that, "John Barlow, Puritan, entitled to his coat of arms, registered as passenger on board the Mathew, from London, May 21, 1635. The ship sailed under warrant from 'ye Earl of Carlisle; Richard Goodlade, master.'" While the time seems right, no documentation of this ship or its passenger complement has been found.

John Barlow was one of the earliest settlers at Fairfield [D. Hamilton Hurd, History of Fairfield County]. The first group that came in with Roger Ludlow, after he had received permission to settle Fairfield in September 1639 from the General Court at Hartford, included John Green, Thomas Staples, Thomas Newton, Edward Jessop and Edmund Strickland. Others, mostly from Watertown, Massachusetts, according to Farnham's Fairfield, The Biography of a Community, followed shortly, and apparently included John Barlow and his family. Fairfield originally consisted of but eight or ten families, living along five roads that Ludlow established. These roads created four squares, each comprising twenty-five or thirty acres. John Barlow's homelot was situated with those of Roger Ludlow, Thomas Staples, Thomas Newton and Robert Hawkins in the so-called Ludlow Square, as shown on the above map [Elizabeth H. Schenck, History of Fairfield]. In today's Fairfield, Frost Avenue is now the Post Road, Ludlow Avenue is now the Old Post Road, and the Fairfield Historical Society sits approximately on John Barlow's lot.

Roger Ludlow was born at Dinton, Wiltshire, England, in 1590 and was a son of a West Country gentry family that had become prominent during the reign of Henry VIII. He attended Balliol College, Oxford, and later studied law at the Inner Temple. A Puritan and an officer of the Massachusetts Bay Company, he sailed to New England in March 1630 on the Mary and John out of Plymouth, England. He was one of the founders of Dorchester, Massachusetts, was Deputy Governor of the Massachusetts colony in 1634, was the principal draftsman of the Fundamental Orders, the basis of government in Connecticut until the Charter of 1662, and in 1651-53 was commissioner of the United Colonies of New England.

So ... who was this John Barlow who was given a lot next door to Roger Ludlow? John Barlow held no public office and yet he seems to have been given a place in the original settlement that says he was an important person. Perhaps he or his wife were closely related to Roger Ludlow, or and proved on October 20, 1658, named his wife and their children Phebe, Deborah and Mary. Rose (Sherwood) (Rumbell) Barlow subsequently married Edward Nash of Norwalk, Connecticut, around 1673.

It is also an old family tradition or legend that James Barlow of Suffield, Connecticut, was John Barlow's brother. It is not known where this story originated but it has been repeated in Cuyler Reynolds' Genealogical & Family History of Southern New York and in an article by Cholly Knickerbocker in the old New York Journal American. In his book The Isreal Barlow Story and Mormon Mores, Ora H. Barlow offers significant proof that James Barlow, who was born in 1659 or some 59 years after John, was a son of the immigrant Edmund Barlow of Malden, Massachusetts, and a grandson of James Barlow of Turton, Lancashire, England.

Family

With one possible exception, John Barlow's family is given in his will. It is believed that it was customary in colonial wills to list children first by sex and then by birth order. That is, sons were listed first in their birth order and then the daughters in their birth order.

The "possible exception" to John Barlow's family is Ann Barlow. According to Jacobus in his History and Genealogy of the Families of Old Fairfield, she was "called" John Barlow's daughter in the Colonial Records. She was not, however, listed in either his or his wife's will. She was still living at the time of John and Ann Barlow's deaths, and while she had moved to New York, she was not that far away. If she had been "disinherited" or "disowned" for some reason, she probably would have been mentioned in the will, if only to exclude her. The suspicion occurs that she was either a younger sister or a niece of John Barlow. In any event, until better information is obtained, she continues to be listed as the oldest daughter.

Thus John and Ann Barlow's children were:

Ann Barlow was born probably around 1625-30 and probably in England. She married Samuel Drake on September 13, 1650, at Fairfield [Fairfield Vital Records]. This marriage was also recorded as September 30, 1650, by the Rev. Silas Constant of the Yorktown, New York, Presbyterian Church. They moved to Eastchester, New York, in 1663 and Samuel Drake died there in 1686. He was a son of John and Elizabeth (Rogers) Drake who came from England in 1630 [Barlow of Barlow, page 66]. Ann died after December 12, 1691 [The American Genealogist, 1987], probably at Eastchester. Their children were: John Drake, born in 1654; Joseph Drake, born in 1663 and died on May 12, 1732; Rebecca Drake; Ruth Drake; Samuel Drake, died in 1690; Hannah Drake and Mary Drake.

Elizabeth Barlow was born probably around 1620-25 and probably in England. She married Daniel Frost around 1640-42 at Fairfield and was his second wife. He was born around 1613 in England, was baptized on January 17, 1612/3, at St. Mary's, Nottingham, and was a son of William Frost who came to New England from Nottingham. She died in 1686. Their children were: Sarah Frost, born around 1644; Rachel Frost, born around 1647 at Fairfield and later married Robert Rumsey; Hannah Frost, born around 1648; Daniel Frost, born around 1650; Joseph Frost, born around 1652; Isaac Frost, born around 1654; and Esther Frost, born around 1656 [Donald L. Jacobus, op. cit.].

Martha Barlow was born probably around 1625 and probably in England. She married James Beers around 1659 at Fairfield, when he bought land there. He came to Watertown, Massachusetts, as a youth with his uncle in 1635, and was a son of James Beers of Gravesend, Kent, England. He died in 1694 and she died in 1698, both at Fairfield. Their children were: James Beers, born in 1662 and died in 1691; Martha Beers; Deborah Beers; Joseph Beers, died in 1696; and Elizabeth Beers.

Deborah Barlow was born probably around 1630 and probably in England. She married John Sturgis in 1650 at Fairfield. He was born around 1624, probably in England. He died in 1700, probably at Fairfield. Their children were: Jonathan Sturgis, born around 1651; Joseph Sturgis, born around 1654; Sarah Sturgis, born around 1661-63; Deborah Sturgis, born around 1659-62; John Sturgis, born around 1655-60; Abigail Sturgis, born around 1663-73; and Thomas Sturgis, born around 1657-68.

Isabella Barlow was born probably around 1632 and probably in England. She married Peter Clapham around 1660 at Fairfield. He was born around 1628 and he died on February 18, 1698. Their only child was Abigail Clapham who married Thomas Merwin in March 1678/9 at Fairfield.

John Barlow was born probably around 1635 and possibly in either England or Massachusetts. He had a home-lot on Main Street at Stratford, Fairfield County, Connecticut, in 1660, at which time he was probably at least 21 years old. He sold this lot to John Hurd and moved back to Fairfield before 1668. He married Abigail Lockwood probably around 1667 and probably at Fairfield. She was born around 1640 probably at Watertown, Massachusetts, and was a daughter of Robert Lockwood and Susanna Norman, who had moved to Fairfield from Watertown about 1652. John Barlow's will was dated January 28, 1690/1, and the inventory of his estate was taken on March 6, 1690/1 [Fairfield Probate District Records]. Their children were: John Barlow, born about 1668; Abigail Barlow, born in 1671; Deborah Barlow, born in 1675; Sarah Barlow, born in July 1675; Elizabeth Barlow, born on May 11, 1677 [Fairfield Vital Records]; Joseph Barlow, born on September 1, 1677 [Fairfield Vital Records]; Ruth Barlow, born in 1680; and Samuel Barlow, born around 1682. Note that the recorded birthdates of Joseph and Elizabeth are too close and there is apparently some error. Jacobus seems to have recognized this error and placed Joseph's birth between that of his sisters Abigail and Deborah, but without explanation.

Ruth Barlow was born probably around 1640 and probably in Massachusetts. She married Francis Bradley around 1660-61 at Fairfield. He was born in 1625 in England and was an apprentice to Governor Theophilus Eaton at New Haven before coming to Fairfield in 1659. He died in October 1688 at Fairfield. Their children were: Ruth Bradley, born in 1662; John Bradley, born in 1664; Abigail Bradley, born in 1667; Francis Bradley, born in 1670; Daniel Bradley, born in 1673; Joseph Bradley, born in 1676; and Mary Bradley, born on December 5, 1677.

I would like to correspond with the descendents of William S. and Sarah Kennon BARLOW, married 22 July 1849 in Cole County, Missouri. William was the son of Julius and Mildred Stone BARLOW, and a brother to my grandfather James M. BARLOW. William died in 1851 leaving one son whose name is not known. This son had one or two sons and several daughters, one of whom was Berthane.

In a search for a g-g-g-grandmother, I have received information that Susan BARLOW married Joseph Viedte FRY (b 14 Aug 1776 in Fayette Co KY). Its said that she was born 9 Mar 1775 and died 3 Sep 1836. But there is no authentic record of this data.

Joseph V. FRY was the son of William A. FRY and Rachel SPEERS; grandson of Benjamin FRYE of Germantown, PA, and a great-grandson of Heinrich FRYE and Anna Catherine LEVERING who were married in Germantown PA in 1682. The children of Joseph and Susan FRY were: Matilda FRY (BARROWS); Eliza FRY (1-FOREMAN, 2-HARRIS); Margaret FRY (HEDDINGTON); William FRY (m. Ann RANDALL); Lucretia FRY (WOOD); Milton Fry (m. Letitia DEVORE); and Joseph V. FRY, Jr. (m-1 Elizabeth RANSDALL, m-2 Elizabeth ALLEN). They were all born in Fayette Co KY.

The only person in the preceding biographical data who is not documented is Susan BARLOW. I would appreciate hearing from anyone who has information about Susan.

I am seeking any information about Abner BARLOW, born 1799 in New Hampshire. His parents may have been Abner and Eunice BARLOW. The family moved to New York in early 1800's. In about 1822 Abner married Polly STRUNK in Chautauqua County, New York. In about 1834 both families moved to the newly formed state of Wisconsin. If anyone has information about this line of Barlows I would like to hear from them.

Editor's Note: Abner was a son of Abner and Eunice (French) BARLOW. I have sent what information I have on Abner BARLOW to Mrs. Bridgman and both she and Barlow of Barlow would appreciate receiving any further information.

Barlow of Barlow is interested in hearing from anyone who has information on the BURLOW-BURLEW-BERLOW-BERLEW family. This line seems to have been initially located in New Jersey in the 18th century. It is assumed that this name is linked to the BARLOW surname, although it is possible that it is a variation of the BURLEY name.

I am researching my GGG Grandfather Chaffin BARLOW. According to the 1850 Casey County Kentucky census he was from Virginia and was born around 1822. He married Mathilda Jane (or Coretta) JACOBS from North Carolina (born around 1827) in the early 1840's, as their first child George W. (or George E.) BARLOW was born in Virginia in July, 1843. Their marriage could have taken place in Virginia, North Carolina, or possibly Tennessee. Chaffin BARLOW also was a member of the 8th Kentucky Cavalry, Company M, during the Civil War. He probably died in 1866-1867 as his wife remarried in 1868. Any information will be appreciated.

I need more information about my husband's Robeson County, North Carolina, ancestors. William BARLOW was born about 1760. He married first Anna NETHERCUT on Oct 1, 1785, in Duplin County NC. He married second Feley BATTON on June 28, 1803, in Robeson County NC. His son William BARLOW II was born about 1796 and he married first Nancy FERGUSON on Feb 24, 1829, in Robeson County. Their children were: Sarah born 1831, Duncan born 1834 and Catherine born 1837. William II married second Elizabeth COUEY, nee WATSON, on Aug 15, 1850, in Montgomery County GA. She was born on July 9, 1815. Their children were: William III born Nov 27, 1850, Elias born 1853, John Thomas born 1856 and Mary born 1859.

William BARLOW III died on June 6, 1926, and was buried in the Homerville TN Cemetary. He married first Victoria O'QUIN (born Dec 15, 1853) and their children were: Burt, Newt and Matilda. William III married second Mary ARNOLD (born Mar 22, 1862, died Aug 22, 1924) on Jan 8, 1888, and their children were: Hattie, Waver, Lizzie, Lorena, Tom Watson, Needham Arnold and Inez.
