The Barlow Road

Samuel Kimbrough Barlow was born on December 7, 1795, in Nicholas County, Kentucky, and was a son of William Henry Harrison Barlow and Sarah Kimbrough. In his youth in Kentucky he learned the tailor's trade. In his early twenties, around 1818, he moved to Bloomington, Monroe County, Indiana, where he married and started a family.

In August 1827 Samuel Kimbrough Barlow was convicted of manslaughter in Indiana. According to the records on file, he struck with an axe and killed one George Matlock on October 16, 1826. Scores of citizens, members of the jury, and the dead man's brother, joined in pleading for Barlow's pardon and remission of his sentence of one year of hard labor on the ground that he struck Matlock in an attempt to prevent him from harming his own wife and children. On December 6, 1827, Governor Ray pardoned him [Indiana Executive Proceedings, Pardons and Remissions].

Later, at the end of the Black Hawk War in 1832, he moved to Peoria, Fulton County, Illinois. Subsequently he pioneered where Chicago now stands and then in 1845 he started west across the plains.

In May 1845 Samuel Kimbrough Barlow, his wife Susannah and their children, Jane Ellen, James, John and William, joined a "wagon train" that left Independence, Missouri, and arrived at the Methodist Mission at Wascopum (now The Dalles, Wasco County, Oregon) in early September. There they learned that the cost of a boat or raft trip down the Columbia was beyond their means, as well as not immediately available, so Samuel Barlow, William Rector and a few others decided to build a wagon road around the south slope of Mt. Hood.

On December 9, 1845, Samuel Kimbrough Barlow petitioned the Provisional Government of the Oregon Territory for a charter to build a wagon road from "the dalls Mission to valey of Clackamus," and he was so authorized in January 1846. The name of the road as granted was the Mount Hood Road but it was called then, and still is, the Barlow Road.

The Barlow Road, which was about 80 miles long when completed, was a toll road and the authorized tolls were $5 per wagon and 10¢ for loose animals. By the fall of 1846 part of the road was finished and in that October 146 wagons, 1500 head of cattle, horses and mules, and 13 head of sheep traveled over it. Work continued and by the fall of 1848 the road was passable over its entire length. Barlow and his partner operated the road for several years although it was never a great money maker. As the years passed, others took over the road until in 1919 it was deeded to the State of Oregon.

The complete story of the Barlow Road, including a record of the 1848 usage of the road kept by the toll keeper and showing the date, number of wagons, and tolls paid of each wagon train, is contained in a pamphlet called the Barlow Toll Road 1846-1919: The Story of Two Men from Fort Deposit, compiled by E. L. (Roy) Meyers and published by the Genealogical Forum of Portland, Oregon, Inc.

Samuel Kimbrough Barlow was a farmer at what is now the town of Barlow, Clackamas County, Oregon, and was recorded there at Milwaukie in the 1850 census. On October 14, 1854, he deeded his 639 acre farm to his son William and he moved to Canemah near Oregon City. He was recorded at Oregon City, Clackamas County, in the 1860 census. He died on July 15, 1867, at Canemah and was buried on the old Barlow homestead.

Samuel Kimbrough Barlow married first Susanna Lee on August 6, 1820, at Bloomington, Monroe County, Indiana [IGI, VR]. She was born on March 16, 1791, in South Carolina and was a daughter of William Lee who was born in Ireland. She died on December 10, 1852, at Barlow in Clackamas County, Oregon. Their children were:

i. Sarah Barlow was born on April 30, 1820, in Marion County, Indiana [IGI]. She married Albert P. Gaines on February 17, 1839, in Fulton County, Illinois [Illinois Archives].

+ ii. William Barlow was born on October 26, 1822, ten miles west of Indianapolis, Indiana, in Marion County [IGI].

+ iii. James K. Barlow was born on January 28, 1826, in Marion County, Indiana [IGI, C1850].

+ iv. John Lawson Barlow was born in 1828 in Indiana [C1850,60], or on May 25, 1825, in Marion County, Indiana [IGI].

v. Jane Ellen Barlow, or Elizabeth Jane Barlow, married Absalom F. Hedges in 1847.

Samuel Kimbrough Barlow married second Elizabeth Sheppard on October 26, 1853, in Clackamas County, Oregon [IGI]. She was born on February 10, 1802, in New Jersey. She was recorded with her husband in the 1860 census. She died on March 16, 1871.

Second Generation

William Barlow was born on October 26, 1822, ten miles west of Indianapolis, Indiana, in Marion County [IGI] and was a son of Samuel Kimbrough Barlow and Susannah Lee. He was recorded at Oregon City, Oregon, in the 1850 and 1860 censuses. He died on June 13, 1904.

William Barlow married Martha Ann Partlow Allen on March 26, 1852, at Oregon City, Clackamas County, Oregon [IGI]. She was born in 1824

I am seeking more information about my great-grandmother Jerusha BARLOW GERARD (born 13 April 1857, died 1884-86), daughter of Isaac BARLOW and Catherine FRUITS. Where is Jerusha buried in Marshall County IN?

Jerusha BARLOW GERARD died young at the age of 27 or 29. She left three children: Olive Luella "Lulu" GERARD ROBERTS (my grandmother), Daisy GERARD McFARLIN RICKETTS (no children), Florence May GERARD. Florence married Bright FOXWORTHY-LEE-SILERS, and her two sons (Dewitte and Cecil FOXWORTHY) were taken away by their father. I would like to correspond with the families of these two brothers and I would also like to correspond with the relatives of Nancy Ann BARLOW GARDNER, who married Elijah GARDNER on 10 April 1866 in Marshall County IN and lived at Concordia KS. Where is the GERARD/BARLOW Bible which was given to Daisy?

More on the Barlow Knife

David R. Schryer wrote to let us know that he has found a source of high quality Barlow knives - the Boker Tree Brand Barlow knives. He says: "Although Boker no longer manufactures Barlow knives in this country its respected Tree Brand Barlow knives are distributed in the U.S. by Magnum USA. Three models are available. All three models are 3 3/8" Barlow knives with a large blade measuring 2 1/2" plus a pen blade. The least expensive model (catalog #493) has Delrin plastic sides. The price is $31.95. For $32.95 one can purchase a beautiful Barlow knife (catalog #493T) which has imitation tortoise shell sides and polished nickel-silver bolsters. The large blade of both items is a standard 2 1/2" clip blade. Another model (catalog #492T) has a 2 1/2" spear blade as its large blade, rather than the more common clip blade. Like #493T it has imitation tortoise shell sides and polished nickel-silver bolsters and sells for $32.95. The address for ordering Boker Tree Brand Barlow knives in the U.S. is: Magnum USA, 14818 West Sixth Avenue #10-A, Golden, Colorado 80401-5045. Their phone number is (800) 835-6433. There is a shipping charge of $5.95."

I would like to know of the parents of Samuel BARLOW who was born in 1822 in Kentucky. He married Mary Kenton and their children were: John W., Nancy Jane, Mary E., Sarah F., Martha, Samuel Thomas, Charles Henry, Eliza Alice and Jesse E. I would be interested in hearing from anyone researching this line. I have some information on Samuel's children and I also have copies of old photographs of the BARLOW family.

Barbara J. Ragland, bragland@equinox.unr.edu, 380 O'Brien Way, Sparks NV 89431

Sarilda/Ceralda C. BARLOW was born about 1837 in New York and her parents were born in Vermont, both according to census information. She married Alonzo Pennial BACON before 1860 probably in either Wisconsin, Illinois or Nebraska. I haven't been able to trace the family after the 1880 Kansas census. There is a slight possibility that BARLOW might have been her married name, and the surname BURTON might be involved somewhere because of its subsequent use in the family. Any information on her parentage and ancestry would be greatly appreciated.

Barlows in the Colonial Wars

Pequot War, July 30, 1636, to July 28, 1637, started with the murder of a trader by the Pequot Indians in New England.

King Phillip's War, July 1675 to August 1675, was caused by the encroachment of white settlers on the Indian fishing and hunting grounds, and all central and southeastern New England was involved. It was led by and named for a son of Massasoit, Matacomet, who took the Christian name of Phillip, and ended by his death.

King William's War, 1689-1697, was an intercolonial war. Military enterprises were generally on a small scale, with raids in the enemy frontier and the burning of forts and towns. It ended with the treaty of Ryswick in 1697.

Queen Anne's War, 1701-1712, was the American part of the War of the Spanish Succession that was fought in Europe, and took place on the Carolina coast and in New England. An armistice occurred in America in October 1712.

King George's War, 1744-1748, was part of the struggle for control of the St. Lawrence and Mississippi basins and began when France and England declared war in the War of the Austrian Succession. New Englanders assembled troops and captured Louisburg on Cape Breton Island in 1745.

French and Indian War, 1754-1763, was part of the European Seven Years War and was the last of a long series of wars between France and England. Control of their colonies in North America was at stake and the peace of 1763 eliminated France from the area. The land between the Appalachians and the Mississippi and Canada was given to England, and Louisiana was given to Spain.
